

1) What did I do well during the pairing session?

- You were creative about the approach to our learning process - instead learning only from the material provided for the challenge, you also suggested looking in to the other resources. That gave us insight in to the best practices.
- You were communicating clearly your thoughts and the steps you followed.
- You were great and patient teacher - every time I suggested that I needed your input to move forward with a test, you shared your ideas. Thanks to your guidance I had a breakthrough in understanding the pathways of conceptualisation of the rspec tests.

2) What could I improve?

Nothing that I can think of!

3&4) Which of these have you seen me doing or have seen actions that contribute to these goals? What were the instances?

- I can TDD anything - Yes. You are working towards this goal. You have a good command of rspec syntax, and understand and apply the concept of the project being test-driven. You successfully wrote tests.
- I can program fluently - Yes. You are working towards this goal. You had an impressive knowledge and confidence displayed in coding process.
- I can debug anything - I don't think that we have done much of debugging during our session.
- I can model anything - Yes. You are working towards this goal. You have an impressive ability to put your ideas in to code.
- I have a methodical approach to solving problems - Yes. You plan and then you code. You divide problems into small steps.

5) Do you have any general comments or further advise?

You are a fantastic pairing partner. People are lucky they can work with you!
